

The upper sketch, shows that one of the new 150-foot bombing planes would have only a 50-50 chance of passing through the "fence" without striking one of the lethal cables, which are so thin that they are invisible, both day and night. Contact with one of the cables would mean destruction for the bomber, as depicted in the lower sketch.

LONDON'S DEFENCE AGAINST ENEMY

LONDON.
Enemy planes which seek to rain bombs on London are going to have to devise some means of beating what appears to be the most effective air raid defence ever thrown around a world capital.

Realising that the sky will be one of the major battlegrounds of the next war the British air ministry perfected an intricate and strategic system to keep death-dealing bombers away from London.

The air ministry has encircled London with these balloons—or spotted them strategically over the city—thereby forming a death-dealing "fence" of cables stretching upward possibly as high as 25,000 feet.

The balloons will be raised and lowered on winches mounted on huge army trucks, thereby making it possible to shift their position on short notice. The cables attached to the balloons are so thin that they cannot be seen from an attacking airplane, even in broad daylight. Charged with electricity, they would be capable of disabling any plane that touches them.

Catsup, 12 Tons Of It, Spilled

TULARE, Cal.—If California's traffic laws made spreading catsup on the highways a serious offence, depending on the quantity used, some one here would have had a huge penalty to square. Joseph Goss turned his truck into another one being driven by William E. Long and the latter's entire load of 12 tons of catsup was spread over the neighbourhood.

Recently all eyes were cast upward in the Kilburn High Road when one of the steaming balloons in London's barrage scheme was raised from the confined space of a cinema car park. The resultant show of curiosity must have greatly pleased Air Minister Sir Kingsley Wood, as the whole thing was planned in connection with his recruiting campaign for the barrage personnel.

Hoping to render London and its environs immune from air attacks Great Britain has devised a balloon barrage defence. The drawing above shows one possible defensive system—a line of 1,100 balloons, attached to lethal cables, and moored at 100-yard intervals encircling the city at a 10-mile radius from the centre. Another possibility is a "field site" barrage, consisting of hundreds of balloons stationed at strategic points within the city limits.

70-FOOT FALL TO DEATH

Climber Roped To Woman

WHILE roped to his woman companion a young man climbing the 2,500ft. mountain, An Cloch, in the Coolins, Skye, fell 70ft. and was killed.

He was Mr. Peter Reid, aged 27, of Dorking, and his companion was Dr. Barbara Raven, of the Ridge, Purley, Surrey.

Mr. Reid and Dr. Raven were on their first climbing expedition together.

They were negotiating a bad corner when Mr. Reid fell and the rope broke.

He landed on a shelf, where he lay until Dr. Raven reached him.

FIVE MILES FOR HELP
Having made him as comfortable as possible Dr. Raven went five miles to bring help. On her return with rescuers Mr. Reid was dead.

He was taken by a stretcher party to Glen Brittle house, where the climbers were staying. Dr. Raven said that when she got down to the ledge Mr. Reid told her the reason for the fall must have been that his hands got numb and he lost his grip.

"My friend was roped to me and was going on before," she said. "I lost sight of him for a moment as he went round a buttress and just then I saw his body hurtle past and crash on to a ledge below me."

Mr. Edward Raven, former second secretary of the General Post Office, said to a reporter that his daughter and Mr. Reid were both very good climbers and had been in the district several days.

"My daughter and Mr. Reid were not engaged. They were merely climbing friends," he added. Mr. Reid came from Georgetown, British Guiana.

MOTHER TRAVELLING
His mother and his two sisters are still in this country," said Mr. A. B. Drayton, the secretary of the Standard Life Assurance Company, by whom Mr. Reid was employed. "I believe that they are at the moment travelling on holiday in Wales. They may not have heard the news yet, although I have wired to their Surrey home."

Mr. Reid was one of the leading chess players in England.

Baby For Widow Of Thetis Officer

Mrs. Conway Lloyd, widow of Lieut. Commander T. C. Conway Lloyd, captain of the submarine Trident, who lost his life in the Thetis disaster, recently gave birth to a daughter in a London nursing home.

Strange Mission of A "Yard" Visitor

INQUIRIES were being made in London and Yorkshire recently regarding the movements of a young man who, after flying in a private plane from Yorkshire to Brooklands, drove to Scotland Yard in a car and asked for an interview with Sir Philip Game, the Commissioner.

It is understood he wished to put before the authorities a scheme he had for the employment of ex-convicts.

While at the Yard the young man appeared to be ill and police arranged for his removal to hospital. His parents were communicated with.

AERODROME VISIT
According to messages from Yorkshire the young man presented himself to a Service aerodrome and declared it essential he should get to Scotland Yard without delay.

After he had been entertained at the officers' mess and had made a number of calls by phone a suggestion was put forward that in view of the urgency of the mission the man should have a Service plane for the journey.

This proposal was vetoed by the commanding officer of the air station. A private plane was hired. At the last moment a flight lieutenant offered to make the journey to London and the two men flew to Brooklands in the plane.

POLICE CAR REQUEST
From the Surrey aerodrome a call was put through to Scotland Yard stressing the urgency of the mission and asking for a police car and chauffeur for the journey to London. Scotland Yard chiefs explained that it was not possible to send a car for such a purpose.

Some time later the young man and the flight lieutenant, having hired a car at Brooklands, arrived at Pretty Rochelle Hudson, who eloped to Ensenada, Mexico, to wed writer Hal Thompson. The marriage was a surprise to friends in Hollywood. The young star's mother knew nothing of their plans.

Told Girl He Had £23,000

SYDNEY ROBERT MILNE is 32 and a convincing talker. He met two young women at a Surbiton, Surrey, boarding-house, and impressed one of them by telling her he was a captain in the Indian Army with a fortune of £23,000 and a pension of £22 to £25 a week.

He also mentioned that when his mother died he would get a further £10,000, of which his bride would have half. Then, going to Eastbourne, he met her father—and stole £100 ring from the bedroom of Miss Alice Horsnell.

Next he called on a firm of auctioneers and estate agents saying he was looking for a business. While "observing" a suitable business he stole the Writam holdings of £20. From another estate agent he obtained an "order to view" an occupied house, then stole £4 from it. About this time police circulated his description to estate agents, and when he called on one he was identified and arrested.

Recently he was sentenced at London Sessions to three years' penal servitude. He pleaded guilty, and asked that 12 other cases be taken into consideration. He had eight previous convictions, and was released from his last sentence on March 16.

Machine-Gunned By Japanese

That a Japanese trawler had machine-gunned his junk was the report made to the Police by Chan Cheung Wah, master of fishing junk No. 4321A.

Chan reports that at 8 a.m. on September 22 his junk was at Tam Kiu Shan in Chinese waters. A Japanese trawler hove to and opened fire with machine guns. One of the crew, Ng Ah Chai, was wounded in the right arm. The junk was boarded and the crew of eleven were forced into sampans and told to row away. Before leaving the scene, they saw the Japanese set fire to their junk.

Later, the crew were picked up by another junk and brought to Aberdeen. The wounded man was taken to the Queen Mary Hospital.

Fishermen Ask for Protection

In view of the increasing number of fishing junks attacked by Japanese warships, the Chinese Fishermen's Guild has submitted another petition to the Hongkong Government asking for adequate protection.

It is estimated that more than fifty fishing junks have been destroyed by the Japanese since the end of August. This figure does not include those which have not been reported to the Guild.

Junk Confiscated

Wong Tam, master of fishing junk No. F8304, reports to the Police that at 5.10 p.m. on August 11, when his junk was anchored at Nam King Shu, in Chinese waters, a Japanese trawler came alongside. The junk crew were then ashore.

Several Japanese boarded the junk and towed her away.

On August 21, Wong Tam found his junk at Lung Yuet. Several articles of clothing and the junk license were missing.

The rate per word for messages to ships not registered in the United Kingdom or Hongkong which was 55 cents in March and raised to 60 cents in July, is now raised to 80 cents.

The reception fee of 40 cents per word demanded in March for all such messages, and raised to 45 cents in July, has now been raised to 55 cents. This fee is payable in addition to the other rate.

Firms Dismiss Employees

Appeal Against "War Economy"

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—A warning that too many workers had been dismissed, and an appeal to employers to refrain from dismissal was broadcast by Sir Samuel Hoare, the Home Secretary to-day.

He urged employers to get back the dismissed men who would be wanted "before the world is much older."

He said that he was certain that at no distant date there would be a severely able-bodied man or woman whose services the country wouldn't need.

Sir Samuel said that the budget next week would make all economies, but that did not mean refusing to buy anything.

"Go on buying, but buy prudently, and when you sell, avoid price-cutting as you would the plague. We must have no hoarders, no hoarders, and no profiteers," declared the Home Secretary.

More Men Working

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—The effect of the war on unemployment is shown in figures issued to-night. Unemployed men at the week ending September 7 were 76,000 less than on August 14.

Unemployed women, however, showed an increase of 175,000 because many of them had left the industrial areas.

Labour's Criticism

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—"Reuter" understands that Mr. Leslie Bagnall, Supply Minister, is giving full consideration to Mr. Arthur Greenwood's criticism regarding the position of labour in relation to supply questions.

There is no intention to bar influential labour advisers from the production side, as Mr. Bagnall regards the co-operation of organised labour in all sections of supply, as essential to its success.

The evacuation followed a radio broadcast from the German High Command urging them to do so.

About 300 foreigners left the stricken city. They were escorted by German officers and Foreign Office representatives.

Members of the diplomatic corps were taken in a motor car convoy, while the other foreigners were taken in three special trains to Konigsberg from Niesleak.

Warsaw Holds Out

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—Military operations in Poland to-day were mainly at Warsaw, where the suburb of Praga was submitted to heavy German artillery bombardment.

German infantry attacks were repulsed and the enemy driven back by the Poles.

The battle for Warsaw has not yet started, says a Berlin announcement.

The Lord Mayor of Warsaw in a radio talk to-day said that the Germans were continuing indiscriminate bombing.

Nazi planes were also dropping propaganda leaflets.

Reds Replace Nazis

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—Soviet troops have replaced German troops in the Lwow district.

Red Army detachments have now occupied the Polish-Hungarian frontier opposite what was formerly Ruthenia.

No Surrender

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—A renewed appeal by the German army for the bloodless surrender of Warsaw met with no reply from the gallant defenders of the Polish capital.

The Germans admit that the Poles are not only holding out, but have launched several counter-attacks.

In the Praga suburb of Warsaw the Poles have attacked many times in an effort to break through the German lines, and the Nazis claim that all attacks were repulsed.

Another broadcast by Colonel Lipinski, commander of the Warsaw garrison, said: "Our resistance is stiffening."

Meanwhile 178 members of foreign diplomatic missions, and 120 other foreigners have been safely evacuated from Warsaw by train.

Fifty-Fifty Line

MOSCOW, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—A joint German-Soviet communique announces that the German and Soviet governments have established the following demarcation line between the armies in Poland.

Along the River Pissa to the confluence of the River Narew, along the Narew to the confluence with the River Bug, along the Bug to the confluence with the River Vistula, along the Vistula to the mouth of the River San, and along the San to its source.

Pact Before War

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

BERLIN, Sept. 22 (UP).—Apparently to offset any suggestion that the Nazis might have drawn back because the Russian advance in Poland, the D.N.B. (German Official News Agency) to-day claims that the line of demarcation was agreed upon before the war started, so that it could be ready if "counter-measures" against the Poles became necessary.

"Germany's task was to destroy the Polish army with the quickest possible war, not to occupy as much territory as possible. This goal has been achieved. The line of demarcation again testifies to the limits of the German war aims, D.N.B. declares."

GLOLITE MIDGET

The flameless cigarette lighter that lights in the wind

A flaming match, or a gadget lighter can't beat a breeze.
Outdoor men know that. So stop fumbling, striking and cussing... take a flameless lighter along and you have a light instantly and always in any kind of weather. Just touch your cigarette to the lighter's tip... puff and a red glow lights it. Almost unbelievable... but try one and you'll never be without it.

No flame... no flint... no battery... no mechanism... just take a second to fill it once in a while. It's not only a great outdoor lighter... but it's the most civilized indoor lighter, too. Ladies please note.

Assassination

THE fuller significance of the assassination of M. Calinescu the Rumanian anti-Fascist Premier is not yet apparent, but it is doubtful whether the crime is an isolated example of youthful hotheadedness, unrelated to the European war now being waged on two fronts.

The Rumanian Government immediately classified the murder as a Nazi attempt to overthrow the legal regime preparatory to German extension of hostilities in the direction of Rumania. Equally quick have been the Nazis to contend that the crime was an attempt by Polish and British agents to create anti-Nazi venom in Rumania. Such anxiety to push the blame on to third parties indicates only too well that the murder bears very wide political motives outside the range of purely domestic affairs.

The Rumanian authorities have acted with exemplary promptness, and if the assassination was a serious attempt by the Nazis to effect a coup, it seems in the first place to have failed as dismally as did Hitler's abortive rising against Austria in 1934. The murder of Dr. Dollfus, the Austrian dictator, served only to cement anti-Nazi Austria. A similar reaction is certain in the case of Rumania, which, under the energetic leadership of King Carol, has learnt to regard Hitlerism with undisguised distrust and aversion.

No one will envy Rumania her position in Europe to-day. She has Soviet troops parading her north-eastern border, a decidedly pro-Nazi Hungary, eager for the return of lost territory in the north-west, and a cowed Slovakia, part of which has now been taken over by Hungary, fringing her in the north. Soviet-Russia has promised Rumania that she will respect her neutrality, but Russia has also demonstrated that she is an opportunist, and if certain exigencies arise, she may well attempt to regain territory which Rumania was awarded from Russia after the Great War.

Germany, of course, has long cast hungry eyes on the bountiful mineral and agricultural wealth of Rumania, and if she thought she could succeed in her quest, would probably display no hesitation in attempting subjugation of such desirable territory.

The assassination of Premier

Calinescu may well be the first move in that direction. The report that Germany has long been preparing for an uprising by the Nazi minority in Rumania cannot be discarded as an unrelated factor to Thursday's crime. The Iron Guards, as an organisation, have been far too disintegrated to be capable of anything like an organised coup without outside assistance. It is fairly obvious from where this has come, and it seems equally certain that Nazi Germany, having now embarked upon a full-dress war, eventually intends to try and conquer the rich lands of Rumania.

Thus the stage seems set for a further and undoubtedly serious expansion of the European conflict.

He is the first orator ever to have led Germany, for her leaders up to now have been warriors, soldiers, not speakers.

He is the most menacing speaker on earth. I have seen people white and agitated with apprehension as they listened to him, yes, and German people.

It is not what he says which carries this menace—that seldom varies—but it is the assault and battery of his voice.

In its restrained tones that voice is strong, harsh, and splendidly masculine; but when he raises it to impress, as men do when arguments do not carry conviction of themselves, it becomes intoned and raucous. It is then that the menace creeps in.

He will make a simple statement quietly, on the thick crust of his deep voice; he will reiterate it in a rising, bellowing shout, and then, when you imagine that no throat could withstand an increase in vocal power, his voice rises to its

HITLER'S VOICE

HITLER broadcast at Danzig on Tuesday. He has been speaking to Germans for about 17 years. They know his speeches almost by heart.

He is the first orator ever to have led Germany, for her leaders up to now have been warriors, soldiers, not speakers.

He is the most menacing speaker on earth. I have seen people white and agitated with apprehension as they listened to him, yes,
and German people.

It is not what he says which carries this menace—that seldom varies—but it is the assault and battery of his voice.

In its restrained tones that voice is strong, harsh, and splendid-

In its restrained tones that voice is strong, harsh, and splendidly masculine; but when he raises it to impress, as men do when arguments do not carry conviction of themselves, it becomes intoned and raucous. It is then that the menace creeps in.

He will make a simple statement quietly, on the thick crust of his deep voice; he will reiterate it in a rising, bellowing shout, and then, when you imagine that no throat could withstand an increase in vocal power, his voice rises to its ragged edges and he screams words in an almost indistinguishable stream—wild, strident, hysterical, as though he were warning the world that a planet is about to strike the earth and that the end of all has come.

In fact, he is probably saying nothing more important or dramatic than: "... we must work to fulfil our plans."
But in that awful, ear-splitting, thought-shattering use of voice he makes it impossible for rational people to think clearly and weigh what he is saying.

His actual words no longer seem to matter once he forsakes the ordinary tones of speech; it is then only the shrieking voice which dominates everything.

In the regular and periodic lapses to almost conversational tones which he uses to provide contrast and effect for these terrific crescendos with which he goads his audience (and himself), for no one knows the effect of the voice better than he does, you can hear the thick, cracking Austrian brogue shaping the words as they fall from his lips.

That brogue is not without its effect, either. A strong country accent is always more telling and more emotion-provoking than academic speech. More than one of Hitler's followers has changed his consonant sounds in conscious or unconscious imitation of the Leader.

THOSE who have listened to Hitler always hear the same one-man vocal orchestra; the same merciless use of voice, though some do not understand a word he says, still they are able to identify that tone of menace, that barking attack on the senses, which has enabled Adolf Hitler to drive Germans like a flock before him, and establish himself as Master of the Third Reich.

Last night's black-out was nothing new to me . . . .

by NOEL MONKS,

"Daily Express" war reporter, who has been in 150 air raids

I HAVE spent the greater part of the last two and a half years in ghost cities and TOWNS.

There was Abyssinia. Then Spain. At Tarragona, little Government port near Barcelona, I experienced my 150th air raid in eleven months. It was the closest call of all.

I shall never get used to air raids. They scare me stiff. They are the only things on earth that frighten me. I have yet to meet the man, woman, or child they do not frighten.

IN Madrid, I have been in my bed, reading a book, with shells whistling past the hotel windows, but, honestly, I have not been scared.

At Valencia, Bilbao, Barcelona I have only had to hear the first dreadful note of the air raid sirens, and my heart felt has nearly choked me.

There is something about an air raid that is completely demoralising. And even when there is no raid on, the darkened streets give one the jitters.

Some people think it fun, creeping round London during the blackouts we are now experiencing at home. But, believe me, it wasn't fun in Addis Ababa. And it was less funny still in Spain.

In Addis Ababa after dark the only lights on the so-called streets were the fiery, glittering eyes of the huge pariah dogs

Calinescu may well be the first move in that direction. The report that Germany has long been preparing for an uprising by the Nazi minority in Rumania cannot be discarded as an unrelated fac-

rich lands of Rumania.

which used to prowl noiselessly behind us in packs of six or a dozen.

They never attacked. They stopped when you stopped, moved on when you moved on. But their eyes used to bore through the pitch darkness right into your back.

In Franco Spain I found conditions similar—with Moors acting the part of the pariah dogs.

Burgos, Salamanca, Talavera, Sevilla, Algeciras... I stumbled my way round those lightless towns and cities night after night, falling over kerbstones, stopping into puddles, getting lost... In the old days those towns and cities seldom slept. But the first dreadful note of the air raid sirens, and my heart felt
has nearly choked me.

I was always shy about carrying a flashlight, lest I be taken for a spy. Funny part was in the five months I was with Francisco I experienced only one air raid in a town behind the lines—at Talavera, dawn, December 10 last year.

WHEN I flew into Bilbao on April 19 there was an air raid on. We had to fly out to sea and hide in the clouds until it was over.

I stayed in Bilbao for five weeks. My diary shows that Francisco's German and Italian raiders came over 110 times in that period. They didn't always drop bombs.

But the fear was there...
Guernica, greatest air raid of all,
is not included in this number...

All Bilbao's air raids were in daylight. The country was far too dangerous for night flying.
But, all the same, Bilbao became a ghost city after dark. That part of air raids—one just doesn't know what to do.

Even deep down below in the refuge you could hear the roar of the airplane engines above.
And you just couldn't help feeling that a bomb was going to drop right on top of your head.

Then the sobbing of women and the whimpering of children as you are packed tight in the refuge unnerved you after a time.

I have stood in refuges for an hour at a time, barely able to shift from one foot to the other, so closely packed were we.

WHEN I returned from Spain to London, my first action was to walk to the window and draw the curtains before turning on the light. Instinct.

In Madrid you were taught to do that by rifle-fire. People who forget to shutter their windows at night suddenly found bullets crashing into their room. They usually only forgot once.

The Italians used bombs on Valencia and Barcelona that weigh more than a ton. In the last air raid I was in Valencia a child's shattered body was picked up 200 yards from where a bomb had fallen among a group of workmen's homes. And there was a crater in the ground thirty yards across.

The bodies of six people known to be in one of the houses at the time were never recovered. Not even a particle of them.

IF THE KING SHOT THE PRIME MINISTER . . .

KING GEORGE the Sixth is the head of a great Democracy.

But . . . is the King a Democrat or a Dictator?

Some say that the King is merely a figurehead; others mutter that the Throne can still sway and dazzle even the obdurate Commons. Both views are right, and both are wrong, for the Royal Prerogative has done good service through the ages simply because no one has ever been able to define it.

This is the superb paradox of the Constitution—that the King of England may lawfully exercise powers to which Hitler or Mussolini dare not aspire even unlawfully.

The King may this afternoon disband the entire fighting forces of Great Britain, if he chooses. He may sell every ship and gun to the highest bidder. He alone may recruit for those forces; it is a Statutory offence for anyone else to do so.

In time of war, George the Sixth may lawfully enter anyone's property, and stay there until the war ends. He may even regulation that property.

EVEN in peace time the little short of sensational. For instance, the King is empowered to turn every and any Parish into a University; the Duchy of Lancaster he may sell outright, lock, stock and barrel.

He is answerable to no man for what he does, and, in that sense, the King can indeed do no wrong. Historian Maitland affirmed that if the King were to shoot the Prime Minister and the entire Cabinet, in the middle of Piccadilly, and for no good reason, he could not lawfully be arrested or tried or punished for his crime. There is no court which may sit in judgment on the King.

King George would be well within his rights if he refused to sign any Bill submitted to him by the Government. Admittedly this particular branch of the Prerogative has not been exercised since the reign of Queen Anne, but Royal Powers do not grow obsolete in law. "Time never runs against the King," as the jurists have it.

However, there are several snags to all this. To begin with, Parliament in the later Middle Ages insisted that certain orders issued through the Royal Prerogative be sealed, according to circumstances, by one of the two Seals of England—the Great and the Privy.

But these Seals have always remained in the custody of impartial and (presumably) incorruptible officers of the State. James the Second thought that by getting hold of the Great Seal, and throwing it into the Thames, he could suspend the Government of England; theoretically he was right.

...nothing would happen—in law, anyway. This article on the Royal Prerogative tells little known facts about what the King has a right to do; for example, he could sell the whole British Fleet to Hitler and pocket the money...

Even more of a check upon the King's power for good or evil is the fact that his Prerogative is to-day exercised with the advice and assent of his Ministers. It is unthinkable that His Majesty should issue vital commands without having first consulted Mr. Chamberlain, who, in turn, would certainly have to consult his Cabinet; and the Cabinet is answerable to the country and the Commons.

NEVERTHELESS, the power conferred upon him by the laws of England, and no man may lawfully hinder him from enjoying them, for the Constitution still works on the assumption that all power emanates from the Prerogative.

The King may sue any of us, but none of us may sue him. His motor cars are not bound to observe Police regulations, neither need they bear number plates. Royal telegrams take precedence over all others, and Royal letters do not have to be stamped. They are franked in the post.

King George may not rent a house, for by doing so he would demean himself into the position of a mere tenant, and that, according to feudal custom, would be incompatible with his status as overlord of all his subjects.

By the same standards, the property of any subject who dies intestate, and without heirs, escheats to the King.

On his official incomes the King does not pay tax. His grandfather and grandmother did so, but merely because the tax was in those days considered intolerable, and the sovereign felt it would be setting a good example if the official incomes were taxed.

BUT the King must pay all customary dues on his personal belongings and estates. He also pays for his seats when he visits a theatre, and nearly always goes as a private gentleman. Upon such occasions it is unlawful for anyone to advertise that the King will attend such and such a theatre.

The King may demand that the National Anthem shall not

A Lay Sermon

SOME would deride this woman's faith on the ground that it was "unreasonable." It was manifestly absurd, they would say, for her to suppose there was healing power in the very garments Christ wore.

Reason, however, ought to convince us that unreasoning faith is perfectly reasonable. God works in response to faith, but we do not know how, and if only on that account we cannot delimit His power. This thought should help us to pray more boldly, more definitely. Too often the limits of our understanding are the limits of our faith, and consciously or unconsciously we frame our prayers so as to leave God, as it were, a way out of granting them.

Let us remember how little all our knowledge must seem when set beside the Absolute. Man at his highest can never do more than touch the hem of God's greatness, nor can all his taking thought increase his stature in this respect. But the faith which accepts unquestioningly is the faith which wins through to reward. And there are indescribable moments when, as it touches the Master's robe, it feels itself clasped by His hand.

be played, lest his identity be discovered, and his privacy marred.

King George may not vote. Even the humblest labourer on the Royal estates has his name inscribed on the polling list, but the Monarch's name does not appear. He is expected to remain aloof from politics.

The power of life and death now rests with the Home Secretary. Parliament has decreed that he alone shall remit death sentences. The wording of Royal pardons still remains: "We are graciously pleased to grant him (or her) Our free pardon."

The power of the King, in fact, is limited by custom to the expression of the Government's wishes. The power of the King in theory is undefined and vast, and doubly vast by its indefiniteness.

WALTER BAGEHOT, a flat of the startling things which Victoria might do through the Royal Prerogative. When she saw the list, Victoria exclaimed: "Oh, the wicked man to write such a story. My people would not believe him." So surprised was she by the might which the law lavished upon her.

But it is unlikely that King George will attempt to take his Prerogative out of cold storage. It is a tricky thing to toy with. An Hardy once remarked, it owes its success in practice to its inconsistency in principle.

Drug Saves Baby From Blindness

THE new drug "M and B 693," which has prevented thousands of deaths in pneumonia cases, has saved the sight of a child only 14 days old.

Soon after the birth, in a country house near London, doctors found that the baby had an eye infection, not uncommon with new-born infants, which usually causes permanent injury to the sight.

Every known treatment was given and failed. The baby was in danger of being half-blind for life.

Then one doctor suggested that the new drug, "M and B 693," introduced only a year ago, should be used.

A leading eye specialist was consulted and agreed that this was the only chance.

"This cure is of great importance, especially in so young a child," a medical expert, who has closely followed the case, said.

TALES ABOUT MINISTERS

A MINISTER was eccosted in a railway carriage by a reveller who said, "Ye think ye ken everything, minister, but I can tell ye twa things ye dinna ken."

"Very likely," said the minister frostily. "What are they?"

"Weel, I'm your cook's husband, and I'm wearing one of your shirts."

A minister was making a parochial visit and determined to make friends with the four-years-old son of the house. Pinching the little chap's fat knees playfully, he asked, "And who has got nice chubby legs?"

"Mummy," was the startling reply. A new pupil having been erected in the church, the minister and the beadle were testing the acoustics.

"Stand you well at the back, Sandy, and see how this sounds," said the minister, repeating a text from the pulpit.

"Fine, meenister, fine," said Sandy enthusiastically.

"Now, you go into the pulpit and I'll stand at the back," said the minister. "Just say anything you like."

Sandy, with great reluctance, at last went up into the pulpit.

hesitated a moment, then said clearly, "I havena had a rise of pay for three years. How does that sound, meenister?"

A newly married couple were getting a little advice from the minister and he reminded the bride of the importance of love, honour, and obedience, and urged her to follow her husband wherever he should go.

"But I cannae doe that," protested the bride. "My man's a postman."

"Father," said a minister's son, "my teacher says that 'congregate' and 'collect' mean the same thing. Do they?"

"Perhaps, my son, perhaps they do," said the minister. "But there is a vast difference between a 'congregation' and a 'collection'."

An absent-minded minister had begun giving out the notices when he found he had mislaid his notebook.

"I publish the banns of marriage," he faltered, "between—between—"

"Between the cushion and the Bible," said the beadle in a loud whisper.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

INFORMAL PORTRAITS

Use a portrait attachment to take informal portrait close-ups such as this with a box camera or fixed-focus folding model.

SUMMER is an ideal season for informal outdoor portraits of your family and friends, and informal portraits are about as easy to take as any other type of snapshot. Naturally, such informal shots are not to be compared with the work of skilled, experienced professional photographers... but, since you take them yourself for your own album, they do have unique personal interest.

Your informal portraits may show one, two, or several persons, grouped naturally—without stiffness. The subjects should fill most of the picture space; too much background is detrimental. Faces should be turned so that a good likeness is obtained—whether profile, full-face, or in between—but as a rule the subjects should not look directly at the camera.

Two types of lighting are acceptable. Direct sunlight from one side is all right, but straight-overhead lighting from the noon sun produces harsh, displeasing shadows. For a softer lighting, and better likeness, place the subjects in "open shade"—for example, at the edge of shade from a big tree, where they will receive light reflected from the sky, but no direct sun.

Informal portraits in direct sunlight require no increase in exposure. In open shade (not under

The Christian Church in the World To-day

Essential Christianity, by Samuel Angus. New York: Macmillan.

FROM an unusually broad experience in widely-separated parts of earth the author of this book has gained a breadth of view not commonly found in typical religious writers of the day. At present professor of New Testament and Historical Theology in the University of Sydney, he counts among his experiences education in universities in Ireland, Germany, Scotland, and America. He has performed professorial duties at Columbia, Yale, and other American institutions. He is also author of several important volumes on various phases of religion. Out of this rich and deep experience he speaks with an understanding which is impressive, and a liberalism which is as refreshing as unusual.

Dr. Angus is a liberal in theology. He proclaims the necessity for individual thought and action in gaining the "mind of Christ" and in making the Christian spirit practical in a turbulent world society. He sees many failures of the Christian Church to interpret aright the sacred Scriptures and in consequence the failure of the Church to Christianize the world. The need for unity in Christ. Christianity has been divisive to its own defeat.

In the new theology which is envisaged, the author holds that Christ (Jesus) will be approached as the solution to problems rather than as a problem himself. There will be less discussion and microscopic examination of the man Jesus, more gaining of the true understanding of his message; in the spirit, not in the letter, lies the solution of humanity's problems.

And he avers that the pertinent question for the Christian is not, "Is my theology the same as that of Nicean or Chalcedon?" of the Tridentine Council or the Westminster Assembly? or Would my theological opinions and convictions command a majority vote in an ecclesiastical court? His concern would rather be What would the Church and the World be like if all Christians were like me? This challenge properly carried out brings the seeker face with the practical value of his own religious concepts. It sets him evaluating his own position in the Christian World.

Dr. Angus conceives that God's revelations to man are continuous. As God spoke through His Son, so He speaks to-day in the great moral issues which face the world. Adherence to an enforced and superficial uniformity, the negation of spiritual freedom, has been another cause for the failure of Christianity to do the works performed and proclaimed by its Founder. Such rigid adherence to dogmas and set rituals requires an ecclesiastical bureaucracy to enforce it, and as a result a situation arises which leads to the strangulation of the very purpose the Church was founded to protect. Unity is an essential of Christianity, but the unity must be upon the few fundamentals demanded by Jesus—the fundamentals which are requisite to the spiritual life of man and in the solution of the debatable problems upon which so much of theological energy has been expended.

In an appealing chapter on "Christianity and Creed," the author discusses and deprecates the tendency through the centuries to the formation of and adherence to hard and fast doctrinal statements which become crystallized into set dogmas. In the strict adherence to these historic creeds has been lost much of the very essence of Christianity—the spiritual insight and power which insure salvation. Examples of simple statements of faith and belief are given and the relation of faith to creed is discussed.

The book sets forth courageously the author's concept of the needs of the Christian Church to examine itself and to adopt reforms in worship which he regards as essential to the success of Christianity. It is worthy of the careful attention of those who would understand the problems of the day in terms of humanity's needs. "Essential Christianity" is an experience of life, the life of God in the souls of men." Here is a liberalism which neither goes over to the humanism of the day nor abandons strict adherence, but without dogma, to the teachings of the Founder of Christianity.

The Book Window

A Key to York, by Rosalie Slocum and Ann Todd (Harper), is a guide that answers almost any question on "East side, West side, all around the town," being the door to "the many free things to do and, when there is a charge, those that are most worth the money" in a vast and varied city. There is even a whole sheet of spots where you can just stand still and get a superb or fascinating view.

Chang Kai-shek, by Hollington K. Tong (Shanghai: The China Publishing Company, 2 volumes), clearly illustrates the advantages and the problems of "official" biography but presents one of the most detailed studies in English of the Chinese Generalissimo, including the official account of his capture and release in the "Sian affair."

A Satchel Guide to Europe, by William Day Crockett and Sarah Gates Crockett (Houghton Mifflin), Fifty-fourth edition, revised; enlarged in 1934 from the forty-third annual edition of William J. Rolfe.

Hawaii, by Sydney A. Clark (Prentice-Hall). For the traveler who wants to know what to do.

The International Yearbook

The New International Yearbook, edited by Frank H. Vizetelly and Charles Earle Funk. New York: Funk & Wagnalls.

A MID the many attempts to devise new forms of yearbooks, it is pleasant to have that time of year come round when the New International Yearbook makes its appearance. It has long occupied a space among the indispensables on any serious reference shelf. And this year's contribution will be no exception to the rule.

The editors have made no change in the already-proved methods of compilation. The pressure of news events has necessitated some compression to provide the added space needed for the elaboration of those departments which deal with diplomatic and political developments. But almost without exception, classifications of more technical than general interest have been sacrificed. The result is a good balance without loss of comprehensiveness, permitting, for example, the devotion of 11 pages to the history of Czechoslovakia during the days of Munich.

It may be argued by some proponents of the newer style in yearbooks that the International lacks interpretation. Certainly the record of Munich accord is given without either heat or assessment of blame. Such interpretation as there may be resides essentially in the selection of detail and in the decision as to what quotations from texts and speeches are to be included.

But research workers who use yearbooks for their primary purpose—which is for factual information—will appreciate the International's presentation of the record without an attempt to read too much of historical judgment into it. Moreover, it is pleasant to find at least one remaining yearbook which is free from tendentious adverbs and meaningless adjectives.

Although Dr. Vizetelly's passing last year is recorded, his name is continued as one of the editors of the volume. As his co-workers point out, the plan and organization of the yearbook was so fully developed by Dr. Vizetelly that the editorial problem was essentially the carrying of these plans to completion. A number of new contributors have been added this year, and sports and architecture are included among the expanded classifications.

Motorists Say Army Ray Is Stopping Cars

COMPLAINTS that private cars are being stopped by "invisible rays" on country roads near Colchester, Droitwich, and Lewes, were recently made to the War Office.

In each case the motorists explain that after a halt of about ten minutes, during which the engine refused to start, a soldier of the Royal Engineers has appeared from behind cover and told them to drive on.

Many "invisible rays" which inventors claim will stop motor-car and aeroplane engines, have been submitted to the War Office and Air Ministry during the past five years.

Few of the inventions, however, have been effective at more than 20 yards range. Others with longer range have proved too costly even for war.

The first report came from Colchester when a motorist stated that his car stopped suddenly on a country road and could not be restarted.

While he was examining the engine a soldier of the Royal Engineers came from behind the hedge and said, "O.K.—you can go ahead now."

The War Office pooh-poohed the complaint.

Since then complaints have been received from Droitwich and Lewes.

Germans Pleased At Treatment

London, Sept. 22. The Ministry of Information has stated that two more German prisoners in Palestine have expressed their thanks to the British authorities for the consideration they have received.

The reported statement of thanks from the people who have been interned would seem to show the falsity of the statements that have been made over the German wireless that Germans in Palestine are being maltreated by the British.

The Ministry of Information also announces that a number of German officers arrived at the prison camp in England yesterday.—Reuter Bulletin.

RAMMED U-BOAT

Trawler's Success

London, Sept. 22. How a Grimsby trawler accidentally rammed and destroyed a U-boat was related by the Captain when the trawler arrived in port looking and with her propeller damaged.

Receiving a signal from a British warship that German submarine was in the vicinity he increased speed, whereupon there was a sudden crash, lifting the trawler's bows into the air. A second and third crash followed amidships and astern with such force that the trawler was brought to a standstill, although the engines were still going full speed.

Directly astern of the sea was covered with bubbles and a quantity of oil, leading to the belief that a U-boat had been destroyed.—Reuter.

China Peace Talks Are Impossible

Chungking, Sept. 22. The lack of a mutually acceptable basis is pointed out in all competent circles as definite disproof of any Sino-Japanese peace talks at present, as rumoured.

The same circles also believe from a subjective viewpoint the likelihood of a Sino-Japanese armistice just as remote.

Although the dramatic changes in the European situation give rise to various sorts of speculation regarding the Far East, the persistent rumours in this respect are attributed to commercial motives on the part of certain quarters, presumably in Shanghai, who seek to manipulate the Chinese dollar, hoping to profit.

It is also pointed out that the Chinese Government strongly resents any peace proposals at the present moment when Mr. Wang Ching-wei is making an effort to establish a "Central Government" in Nanjing and is most desirous of peace in order to achieve his object.

The Chinese Government would never consider a peace offer in any event unless assured of freedom from encroachments, political and otherwise, because it must weigh the outcome of two years of resistance and bitter sacrifices involved. If the war does not bring gains at least it should not leave the position worse than before.—United Press.

RUSSIA WANTS MORE AND MORE OF POLAND

Continuing their stubborn defence of Warsaw, the Polish troops have now been reinforced by three brigades of cavalry and other troops which succeeded in breaking through the German ring and entering the capital, which has again been bombarded by the Germans with severe civilian casualties.

Moscow reports that complete agreement has been reached between Germany and Russia regarding the partition of Poland. It is stated that the frontier will reach almost to Warsaw. The acceptance, according to Kaunas, was brought about under Russian pressure.

Hitler who has been inspecting the German troops on the Gdynia sector is expected on the Western Front to confer with the Chief of Staff on the Siegfried fortifications.

Berlin, Sept. 22. It is officially stated that the German and Soviet Governments have agreed to the demarcation line between the German and Soviet armies along the rivers Pila, Narew, Vistula and San.

Russia obtains nearly half of Poland, including Vilna, Brest Litovsk, Lublin and Lemberg.—United Press.

Soviet Demands Grow

Berlin, Sept. 22. The line of demarcation, on which the Soviet and German governments have agreed for partition of Poland, follows the rivers Pila, Narew, Vistula and San, according to the official news agency.

This means that the Soviet frontier, starting from Polish East Prussian frontier, 20 miles north of Nowogród, will extend as far west as Modlin, thence through Warsaw to the confluence of the Vistula and the San north of Sandomierz. It follows the San through Przemyśl, reaching the Hungarian frontier near Luppuk.

The Soviet will thus occupy the entire Polish-Rumanian and Polish-Ruthenian frontiers.—Reuter.

Hitler Inspects Army. Danzig, Sept. 21. Hitler inspected the Westernplatte this morning and reviewed the crew of the Schleswig Holstein which was tied up at the Westernplatte wharf. Thereafter, he toured Gdynia in a review of all the troops who participated in the capture of the city, visited the harbour and called at the Casbah where he met Field Marshal Goering who is making a similar tour.

The official German News Agency, for the first time, refers to Gdynia as Golenhofen.—United Press.

Civilian Toll Heavy. London, Sept. 22. The radio from Warsaw broadcast at 1.30 p.m. that 700 civilians, mostly women and children, were killed by Wednesday's bombardment. The Soviet Embassy was gutted and several members of the personnel were injured.

In addition three cavalry brigades, two infantry divisions broke through the German lines and joined the Warsaw defenders, states the broadcast.

The military commentator said that up to Wednesday evening 87 German planes had been brought down in Warsaw. He added that, present raids made were by "rather poor" machines of various types, owing to the transfer of the bulk of the German air force to the western front.—United Press.

Battle Nears End

Berlin, Sept. 22. The German News Agency states that fighting continues between the Dazna River and bend of the Vistula. The wreckage of the defeated army shows that the great battle is approaching its end.

The Polish motorised equipment, guns and baggage, wagons, consist of a confused debris among bomb and shell holes. While burning houses collapse in nearby villages, the German infantry makes steady advance.—United Press.

Soviet Advance In South

London, Sept. 22. Interest in the Russian advance centres in Southern Poland between Kolomea, on the Rumanian border, and Przemyśl, focal point of the previous German ambitions.

It is significant that German bombers carefully avoided bombing the Lwow-Sanitary railway which runs into Rumania, obviously to keep an open road for Rumanian oil and wheat which the Russian advance apparently closes.—Reuter.

Big Advance Expected

London, Sept. 22. On the Western Front action on one side or the other is expected before long, especially as the French advance has revealed a decided weakness in the Siegfried Line defences.

The captures of German prisoners have served to identify a large variety of troops already brought from Poland. Hitler is expected to issue a peace ultimatum when Warsaw falls, less in hope of acceptance by the Allies than to impress his own people and neutrals of his eminently pacific nature.—Reuter.

Big Push Anticipated

Paris, Sept. 22. Six million Frenchmen assigned to mechanised units and artillery continued an unending march eastward. British preparation are likewise reported to be progressing, while signs that Germany is preparing big scale action are indicated. A communiqué states posts are facing each other out.

Luxembourg reported an extension of the accumulation of German bombers at Aachen.

French despatches reported that the French advance positions between the Biles River and Bornbach have pressed forwards so that the outposts are now in sight of Zittel-

U.S. Neutrality

President Expected To Win

Washington, Sept. 22. A historic battle is looming in the Senate with President Roosevelt apparently holding considerable advantage.

The Chinese, Japanese, British and Polish Ambassadors were in the Strangers' Gallery when the President delivered his speech.

The President's words were so forceful that they have changed the sentiment which last Wednesday, seemed to be against the Administration.

The President is facing the impending attack from the isolationist group by maintaining that any modification of his plan will constitute favouritism towards the aggressors.

Twenty-four members of the Isolationist group met immediately after the President's speech.

Their spokesman, Senator La Follette, subsequently said that the President's proposals "from hell to breakfast time."

The isolationists met in Senator Hiram Johnson's office, in which, twenty years ago, nine Senators formed a coalition to fight American participation in the League of Nations.

Both Houses of Congress have adjourned until Monday.—United Press.

Drive For Recruits

Washington, Sept. 22. The United States Army has opened a drive for 50,000 recruits in order to bring the force up to full strength.—Reuter Bulletin.

Japanese Expectation

Tokyo, Sept. 22. When the United States invokes the revised neutrality act on the basis of the cash and carry clause, Britain and Japan would benefit most, according to qualified observers.

They say that the United States would possibly exert "moral pressure" against Japan before it could place an arms embargo on Japan at the expiration of the 1911 Treaty of Commerce and Navigation in January, next year.

Informal quarters warn that America would probably continue to aid China in carrying out her self-imposed role of a "watch-dog" in the Orient for the Western Powers. These circles urge the Japanese nation to prepare against any developments in case of Japan-American relations becoming worse.—Donnel.

"NOT SO HARD"

German Prisoners In England

London, Sept. 22. A number of German officers arrived at a prison camp in England yesterday. Other German prisoners were taken to another camp. A few people saw them arrive and there was no demonstration.

The prisoners laughed when a woman among a small group of spectators shouted "Hard luck, mate." One of the prisoners replied, "Not so hard."—Reuter Special.

Grim German Relics

Paris, Sept. 22. According to reports, the French troops have reached the outskirts of Saarbrücken and a strongly fortified point of the Siegfried Line. The General Staff has not yet confirmed this, but it is known that the French have made advances in this sector and are now commanded by their observation posts.

It is semi-officially stated that the French positions on the front each day acquire a strength of new solidity. German artillery continues to shell the French positions established in the hilly region in the south area.

All kinds of traps were set by the Germans when they retreated over the Saar heights before the French advances. For example, bombs were concealed beneath steel helmets apparently thrown away, mines which blew up when door handles were turned in a deserted villa, and stocks of poisoned food.—Reuter.

Hongkong's Most Effective Black-out

The most comprehensive and extended blackout yet staged in Hongkong was conducted last night. For the first time the Harbour was included in the total blackout programme, the port being closed from 8 p.m. to 9.45 p.m. Without the persuasion of the intense campaign with which they were favoured on the occasion of the previous blackout, all Colony residents co-operated efficiently and the outstanding success of the exercise was gratifying to the Air Raid Precautions Officer, Wing-Commander A. H. S. Steele-Perkins, and his co-operators.

The exercise began at sunset, a period of strictly reduced lighting being maintained until 9.15 p.m. At that time sirens throughout the Colony, in a fluctuating shriek, announced the approach of raiders and, in less than the three minute limit allowed, every light on land and sea was extinguished or concealed. At 9.35 p.m. navigation lights came out again on the harbour, but it was not until 1 o'clock this morning that the "raiders passed" signal was sounded and normal lighting could be resumed.

A.R.P. exercises were carried out in many places, while aircraft overhead combined the offices of observers and "raiders."

The warning that air raiders were approaching was received by Wing-Commander Steele-Perkins at precisely 9.14 p.m. and he at once put his hand to a switch which set every siren in the Colony shrieking. At once such lights in houses, streets, and vehicles which had been dimmed since sunset were extinguished or entirely concealed and street traffic pulled to the roadside. Red lights at each end of the tram showed their positions.

Ferry services ceased at 9 p.m. and were not resumed until 9.40 p.m. At 9.15 all harbour lights, including navigation lights, were extinguished; even sampans desisted their riding lights.

From a high vantage point an observer watched the dramatic silencing of Hongkong's many thousands of lights.

As two blue plane lights appeared high above, the sirens on Kowloon side began to wail. A wave of darkness seemed to flow over the mainland, the harbour was enveloped in gloom, and soon scarcely any light other than the intermittent harbour shore lights were showing.

The island sirens took up the cry and every light on the Peak was covered as with one great blanket. The quick response indicated a clear understanding of the A.R.P. requirements; at the climax to the exercise lights clearly discernible might have been counted on the fingers of one hand.

Telltale Cigarettes

In one thing, however, the Chinese public proved unco-operative. Instead of staying indoors—as they were asked, they crowded the streets, the quays, thick with them. How dangerous their presence in the streets might be, to the city as much as to themselves, was shown by the clarity with which the occasional cigarette stood out from above. Every glowing cigarette was a tell-tale, however slight.

Compensation for this small offence was contained in the success of the exercise on the harbour. During the period of intense darkness not even a sampan cigarette stood out from above. Every glow-wharves being completely shrouded. Aircraft zoomed overhead and explosions and flashes from Kowloon side indicated where bombs were supposed to have fallen.

At 9.35 the Colony came to life again, but in shadowy fashion. No general signal was sounded, but police and air raid wardens quickly and swiftly informed vehicle owners that road traffic could be resumed. dimmed lights, were moving slowly through the streets. It was only then that many people who had intended 7 o'clock shows were able to catch ferries and buses and go to their homes.

4,000 People In Exercises

A.R.P. exercises on the ground began as soon as the warning sirens sounded. About 4,000 people took part, men and women.

Fire control exercises included the regular Fire Brigade and the new Auxiliary Service. While two units waited to attend to any real fires which might chance to break out in Kowloon and Hongkong, fire-fighting groups answered calls to "outbreaks" in eight places on the mainland and 12 places on the island. Everywhere they were required to use pumps and hoses and every operation was carried on until the whole group had been in efficient service for five minutes.

One unit was summoned to a fire in the Hongkong Hotel and soon had two deliveries working from the nearest hydrant. Another crew remained at the Central Fire Station coping with an incendiary bomb at roof level. Calls were answered by two crews of men fully rigged in breathing apparatus. One of these assembled in Gloucester Arcade, where an ambulance participated in the exercise and treated two "injured" persons.

In every instance the exercises were smoothly conducted, the men of the Auxiliary Service showing a quick grasp of their duties. Several

CHARITY GOLF MATCH

London, Sept. 21. Richard Burton, the British Open Golf Champion, is to meet Henry Cotton, twice holder of the title, in a 36-hole match in Aid of Red Cross Fund on October 15. The match will take place at Sale, which is Burton's course. —Reuter Bulletin.

TEE FOR ONE

"Jackson, old boy, congratulate me. Kindly slap me on the back."
"Certainly, my dear fellow, but may I ask you why? You haven't got engaged, I hope?"
"No, no. This is something really important. I did the fourteenth in one yesterday. A blow in a million! The swipe to end all swipes!"
"But I don't understand. You look as fit as the proverbial Stradivarius. Were there no celebrations?"
"Celebrations? There's been nothing like it since the Relief of Mafeking."

"Perhaps I'm dense, but I still don't understand. Forgive my bluntness, but where's the hangover?"
"Hangovers? Haven't you heard? There aren't any nowadays. You just drink Gimlets, or take a long glass of Rose's Lime Juice after the jamboree. It's just a question of therapeutic action as a doctor once described it to me."
"So Rose's prevents the morning after?"
"Really and truly. You know, old boy, you ought to keep a bottle of Rose's in your locker. Some day even you may do a hole in one!"

U.M. Omar Brilliant As Skip For The Winners: C.M. Sequeira Unlucky

Shanghai, Sept. 17. WITH victory in the first lawn bowls interport almost within their grasp, Shanghai made a last-minute miscalculation to deliver the honours to Hongkong who triumphed by 18-17 after the local side were ahead by 17-16 on the 20th end of the interport encounter taking place on the Police Recreation Club green yesterday. The Shanghai skip had the misfortune to dislodge his own wood with the last delivery of the game, thus giving Hongkong two shots as the visiting team were lying first and third. Had Shanghai bowled short with this last wood, a tie of 17-17 would have resulted and another end would have been required to gain a decision.

It was one of those unfortunate twists of fate however, for, had the Shanghai skip succeeded in his intention of carrying the jack to his backwoods, a victory would have been certain for Shanghai and he would have been the hero of the day.

The match was an uphill fight almost all the way for the local side as the Colony players held the lead for the major portion of the game and it was not until the 19th and 20th ends that Shanghai came into their own again to be ahead of their opponents. At one point, things did not look too rosy for the local four as they trailed by 8-12 on the 10th end. The two teams were as follows:—
Hongkong—U. M. Omar (skip), A. J. Hall (No. 3), B. W. Bradbury (No. 2), G. Duncan (No. 1).
Shanghai—C. M. Sequeira (skip), F. O. Madar (No. 3), S. S. Wilkinson (No. 2), A. A. d'Assis (No. 1).

HEAVY GREEN
The intermittent rain yesterday had the effect of producing a heavy green which was to the liking of the Hongkong players as the pace was almost similar to that which they encountered on the Colony greens.

Omar was once again in the limelight for the visitors, and though his usually unerring drives did not wobble as much as on former occasions, he still turned in some rare performances and on no less than three occasions he won the head single-handed. Excellent support was rendered by Bradbury who displayed his best form yesterday out of the four matches that he has played locally. Leading off for Hongkong, Duncan gave the Shanghai players a great amount of trouble as he placed his shots right on the jack almost invariably.

Sequeira was the backbone of Shanghai's side, his splendid work as skip taking his team out of many awkward situations after time when the lie of the woods was against him, he would take out a wood to lie one or two, or else he would draw right on the jack.

Steady play marked Wilkinson. No. 2 for the local four, as one of the outstanding players of the afternoon, he worked hard in glove with his skip and even in the most difficult situations he was able to carry out Sequeira's intentions.

REMARKABLE PLAY
Even though the conditions were in favour of the visitors, it did not deter the local team from taking the lead by 4-3 on the fifth end. Some remarkable playing on the sixth end by Omar netted a double for the southerners, however, to put the visitors up by 5-4, a supremacy which they never relinquished until the 10th end.

'Lucky Bradbury' Is Delighted!

Shanghai, Sept. 17. "Naturally I am delighted with Hongkong's performance in winning this first Interport Match, though the ending must seem rather unfortunate for Shanghai, losing by a single shot," Mr. B. W. Bradbury, captain and manager of the triumphant Hongkong Lawn Bowls Interport Team, stated yesterday while still wearing the flush of victory to a representative of "The Shanghai Sunday Times" soon after the Hongkong side had defeated Shanghai by 18-17.

"I must say that our opponents played remarkably well under the existing conditions. The rain certainly played the match into our hands as to-day's heavy green is somewhat similar to the greens in Hongkong with which we are familiar," continued Mr. Bradbury. But the successful Hongkong Captain had one more reason to be pleased with himself. He has taken part in his last interport contest in lawn bowls and has achieved the enviable record of never having lost one of them. Therefore, he had much at stake yesterday afternoon, but there is still not a blot on his record, though it came very near to it as Shanghai led by 17-16 on the 20th end.

But will Bradbury's luck hold out? There are still two interport encounters in the offing, the first on Wednesday and the other on Saturday. Perhaps it is not all luck, after all?

In this sixth head, Hongkong were lying two through Duncan and Bradbury. Their supremacy was short-lived as Sequeira spread the bowls with a heavy drive, after which Shanghai were lying three. With his two woods, Omar changed the whole complexion of the head and scored a two for the eventual winners; his first delivery was a pretty "toucher" which trailed the jack for a single, but his next wood completed a masterful piece of play when it rested almost on the first effort for the Colony's second shot. Only two fours were gained in yesterday's game and on the 20th end, Omar was responsible for a great extent for carrying the jack for Hongkong. Though Bradbury opened well for the visitors with two splendid woods almost sitting on the kitty, Wilkinson went one better to cut them both out to a Shanghai cut the first draw for the second. Seeing his backwoods well-grouped, Omar trailed the jack right into the midst of three Shanghai woods to score four.

BAD PATCH
Following this success, Hongkong struck a bad patch when after lying four, Omar struck in a Shanghai bowl to present a gift of a single to the local side. At this point, Shanghai were behind by 6-12 but the local rink managed to overhaul their opponents on the 16th head when Wilkinson and Sequeira produced some fine play to set the count at 15-15.

The 20th end produced some extremely exciting play with the advantage changing hands with almost each delivery. Duncan grouped the jack his woods within inches of Wilkinson in the opening singles but Wilkinson carried the jack to lie one for Shanghai. In his turn, Bradbury ousted the Shanghai wood by pushing in one of Duncan's efforts. Wilkinson was still determined to fight and ran his first wood on to the jack. Omar ended the fray by scoring a single for the visitors with a beautiful forehand drive. This reduced Shanghai's lead to only 17-16.

The 21st head, which ended disastrously for Shanghai, did not begin too promisingly with Hongkong lying three when the skips went to the "footers." All looked bright again for Shanghai as Sequeira cut out two of the Colony's woods with his first draw. This left Hongkong lying first, Sequeira's shot second and another Hongkong wood third, and several tempting Shanghai backwoods.

AMBERS WINS—Lou Ambers, left, and Henry Armstrong slug mightily during their scrap at Yankoo Stadium, New York, which Ambers won, regaining the lightweight title he lost last August to Armstrong. Fans booed decision, yelling "fake" when Armstrong lost 5 rounds on fouls.

Sequeira took a sporting chance to send the jack to his woods behind in order to score a victory for the local team. Unfortunately, his delivery struck out his own shot to leave Hongkong lying two, just enough for a triumph.

Police Soccer XI Strengthened

The Police Football Club is looking forward to a very successful soccer season and expect to finish among the leaders. They will have the services of most of last year's players, although Chris Pile, one of the mainstays of their defence and an interporter, has retired.

The Police will shortly be reinforced by a schoolboy international inside forward, Hogarth, who is due next week.

G. Gough has been elected captain for the firsts and North, interport wing-half, is vice-captain. J. S. Riddell is Secretary.

Mr. L. A. Searle, an outstanding rugby forward, has been elected President.

Chan Kam-tul, former Eastern cushion, who has joined the Force, Aitken and D. H. Taylor, of rugby and swimming fame, are available for goalkeeper, and others available are Blackburn, reliable right-back; Chan Kwong-yue, Brooks, returning after an absence of two seasons; Ferrier, forward; Wong Mau-kwai, more than useful forward; Fan Kwai-chol, another good forward; Howlett, inside right; Moss, centre-forward; Mok Lun-fan, J. Wall, forward (only available when not playing rugby); Bodie, Tse Siu-yu, Kwok Hing and C. Pope (when not playing cricket).

Several newcomers have yet to be tried out and several practices have already been arranged.

Here And There With "Abe"

Revival Of Badminton At Kowloon C.C.

BADMINTON is to be revived at the Kowloon Cricket Club after a lapse of about four years. Arrangements have been made for a tournament to be available to members in the main hall on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, from 3 p.m. It may be recalled that the K.C.C. figured among the first of the local clubs to participate in the Hongkong badminton league, but subsequent trouble with the highly sprung dance floor on which the game was played, made it imperative for badminton to be shelved. Since then alterations have been made permitting the game to be played on a more level surface, one of the features of the K.C.C. winter programme.

Louis Wins Again
AFTER the first fight between Joe Louis and Bob Pastor, newspaper writers had some sarcastic comments to make about the latter. The following are some of the simplest:—"Pastor will always be remembered as the heavyweight who ran backward for 10 rounds faster than Louis could plod forward." "He (Pastor) collected the highest sum ever paid the runner-up in a foot race." "If Louis were a polished fighter, a perfectly skilled master of boxing and fighting, he might have emulated a Jim Corbett or a Gene Tunney and fainted his rival into openings. Instead, however, Louis was just like Jack Dempsey in the ring against Tom Gibbons in Shelby, Montana, back in 1923—a paralyzing litter chasing a back-peddling foe whose one desire was to survive the distance; swinging desperately and missing awkwardly, lifting himself in futile pursuit of a rival who could not be caught." These are not very flattering things to say of a boxer who aspires to become heavyweight champion of the world; but from all accounts these comments appear to have been justified. These two boxers met again at Detroit on Wednesday, and this time Louis managed to pin his rival, knocking him out in the 38th second after the start of the 11th round. To judge by the cables, it would seem that neither Louis nor his rival had more accuracy now than he did that night in January, 1937, or that Pastor was standing up to the negro.

Week-end Soccer
LAST Sunday Hongkong soccer enthusiasts had an opportunity of seeing the visiting Haiphong-Hanoi footballers in action at Happy Valley. Without meaning to be discourteous to the tourists, I must say that they did not impress me as a team capable of beating some of our best elevens in Hongkong. But anyone could have recognised that if they were lacking in control and combination, they had the redeeming feature of being extremely fast and that their forwards could shoot when they got within shooting distance. A week of practice in local conditions ought to go a long way towards eliminating some of the faults which they revealed last Sunday, and therefore we may expect the combined Haiphong-Hanoi team to give a better account of themselves during the week-end when they are due to play two matches. To-day they meet the Combined Chinese and tomorrow they will play the Rest of Hongkong. Both these matches are on the Club ground at Happy Valley.

Remember Him?
IN the list of officers who survived the Courageous disaster is Lieut. M. R. Branwell. How many in Hongkong remember him? It was only a couple of seasons ago that Branwell, who was then attached to the China Station, was making a lot of runs in local cricket. One of the best batsmen in the Navy met of recent years, Branwell, a left-hander, used to open the innings for his side. His friends in Hongkong—and he made many during his short stay here—will rejoice at his good fortune.

Shanghai Soccer
IN spite of the world crisis, the outlook for the forthcoming football season in Shanghai is still bright as indicated by the attendance at the annual general meeting of the Shanghai Football Association at the Shanghai Engineers' Club. Mr. Freddie S. Bridges, who is one of the city's most ardent supporters of football, was unanimously elected President of the Association following the departure of Mr. R. Grimshaw.

Mr. Max Spiegler retained his office as Secretary while the four Vice-Presidents and the rest of the members of the Executive Committee are chosen as follows:—Messrs. G. L. Aitchison, M. P. de Campos, T. W. Wilson and Captain H. G. Reed.

Executive Committee (in addition to the above six officers):—Messrs. S. E. Burt, H. A. Coward, J. G. Forbes, J. Reyes, S. W. Cash, H. F. Marshall and an Army Representative.

The Appeals Committee remain the same as last year. They are Brig-

Eighth Defence
UNLIKE champions of the past, Joe Louis has been fighting all and sundry since he won the crown. One charge which cannot be levelled at him is that he is reluctant to go into the ring. In fact this fight with Pastor was the eighth defence of the title for Louis, whose full record since winning the championship is as follows:

1937.—Knocked out Jimmy Braddock, eighth round, Chicago, June 22.
1937.—Outpointed Tommy Farr, over 15 rounds, New York, August 30.

1938.—Knocked out Nathan Mann, third round, New York, February 23.
1938.—Knocked out Hurry Thomas, fifth round, Chicago, April 1.

1939.—Knocked out Max Schmeling, first round, New York, June 22.
1939.—Beat John Henry Lewis, fight stopped in first round, New York, January 25.

1939.—Knocked out Jack Roper, first round, Los Angeles, April 18.
1939.—Beat Tony Galento, fight stopped in fourth round, New York, June 28.

1939.—Knocked out Bob Pastor, eleventh round, Detroit, September 22.

It will thus be seen that Wednesday's fight was the first title bout in which he had appeared at Detroit, his home town. In fact this was only his second fight in that city since he turned professional. Once before, he had defeated Natio Brown, of Washington, in Detroit.

SHE BECAME STOUT ALL AT ONCE

Face Nearly Twice as Big as Before

Some people seem to put on weight all of a sudden. You meet them one day, and they are quite normal, then the next time you see them you hardly recognise them, they have become so fat. That was what happened to this woman, who put on 5½ stone before she began taking Kruschen.

"I used to be very thin," she writes, "only 8 stone 8 lbs. Then all at once I got so stout, my friends did not know me. My face was nearly twice the size, I had a double chin and my arms were terribly fat. I weighed 14 stone 2 lbs. Then one day I began taking Kruschen pills. Imagine my surprise when I started going thinner. I am now 10 stone 10 lbs., and I am slim enough for my height, as I am very tall. I have never dieted a bit, and I feel much better in health."

(Mrs.) B.A.
Before the first bottle of Kruschen is finished, the fat starts to go. Then, month after month, the scales tell the same story—a few pounds less of superfluous flesh to burden the body and endanger the health.

Indispensable as a handkerchief during colds. Soothes the inflamed nose and checks the spreading of germs.

A SURGEON AT SEA

by

THE life of a doctor on an ocean liner is more exacting than the average person realises.

A great deal of my anxiety, for instance, centres round the surprising number of elderly ladies who come on a voyage. Perhaps this is due to an experience I had early in my career as a ship's medical man.

I was sent for hurriedly to replace another doctor who had taken ill.

I found there was an old lady on board, and her condition, due to heart trouble, was anything but reassuring.

I can still recall the shock I got on the third day of that trip when this passenger died and was buried at sea. Ever since then I have devoted extra care to elderly women, and I am glad to say that I have had no further such distressing experience.

It is amazing how ladies of my years and upwards, Indian and English, will set out to cross oceans, with all the courage of old sea-dogs, in order to see a grand-son married, or to renew some family tie that had lapsed.

My experience with these intrepid travellers ranges from the lady who was carried on board on a stretcher and recovered so well as to walk off at her destination, to the frail old granny in whom the spark of life seemed likely to flicker out with every hour.

My Greatest Worry

The greatest of my worries, however, is the ever-present fear that some serious operation may develop during a voyage.

I have had many cases of appendicitis, which I managed to stave off until a big port was reached, where more adequate facilities for the operation were available.

I have had to operate in cases of urgency, but I frankly admit that I would do almost anything rather than have to perform a serious abdominal operation while at sea.

Every trip there is always a crop of minor accidents. Passengers knock their heads against low beams or trip in passing through a doorway, but sometimes the heavy seas are responsible for accidents of a more unpleasant nature.

On one voyage I looked in to see the conclusion of a whist drive when an unexpectedly severe lurch sent the players, chairs, and some tables into a heap at the other end of the room. There were fifteen

The best method of combating it, however, is not to dwell on the subject, to eat as heartily as possible, get plenty of fresh air, and if you should be sick then be sick and get it over as quickly as you can.

The passengers make a voyage interesting for the doctor and other officers on board, but I will be pardoned for venting one particular personal grievance.

Because I am a doctor everyone referred to that very common seasickness. This distressing complaint is one over which the medical man has little or no control, and his services consist mainly of chatty topics of conversation I much prefer almost anything else.

The removal of the precious stained glass windows of Canterbury Cathedral began during the crisis. Under the direction of experts they were taken to an unknown place and buried. The Dean of Canterbury, Dr. Hewlett Johnson, said: "The public will not be informed of the exact place of burial. The plain glass windows will be installed as substitutes. No provision is being made for the removal of the stained glass windows of St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey. It is considered that they are of great and valuable enough to warrant the risk."

The cruiser was the Viking, owned by a member of the Severn Yacht Club.

The boats were off Portlock Weir when those in the Viking saw flames beneath the floorboards around the engine.

With fire extinguishers and blankets they endeavoured to smother the flames, but without success.

Plane Lost In Blackout!

C.N.A.C. Pilot Found It Efficient

Proving the efficiency of Hong-kong's blackout, the C.N.A.C. plane which arrived from Chungking late at night, was puzzled by the disappearance of the lights and for 20 minutes circled vainly round trying to pick up the hearing of the Kai Tak airport.

Passengers in the plane, who have often arrived here at night by air, told a "Telegraph" representative on arrival last night that they were unable to identify the outline of the Colony.

"We were afraid that our plane would accidentally bump into the darkened Peak while it was circling round, but later on the airport landing benches were switched on and we made a good landing," one said.

A check up at some of the hospitals in the Colony indicates that three "blackout" babies were born. They were all Chinese.

In one of the Chinese hospitals, doctors had to be used by the doctors during the birth of one of the infants.

Port Was Closed

One liner which hoped to tie up before 11 p.m. found itself at the entrance of the harbour just at that time. The closure of the port kept it there, with all lights but navigation lights out, for almost two hours. In the reduced harbour lighting and sounding its siren frequently, it then left the port and tied up about 12.30 p.m.

Under the regulations forbidding ships to telegraph their movements, even the "news" were uncertain whether she would arrive before the closure, so that many people were waiting on the wharf at 8 p.m. They drifted away when the time of the closure of the port arrived.

"Kowloon Splendid"

The worst area in this respect was the sea front where it was difficult to move.

"Kowloon was splendid, the streets being considerably clearer than Hong-kong, and its blackout was 100 per cent," he said.

The object in prolonging the blackout was to try and discover if those individuals, who sit in cinemas rather than take any blackout precautions in their homes, would co-operate when they returned to their homes. Some of them did switch on their lights when they were getting into bed and had not darkened windows.

Men Know Duties

Car lighting was appreciably better this time, he said, and there were fewer cars on the road.

"The ideal we want to aim at is to keep unnecessary cars off the road," he pointed out.

The exercise proved that the A.R.P. personnel unquestionably knew their duties.

"The success of the blackout was no doubt entirely due to the full co-operation which the public gave me and to the very efficient manner in which all the A.R.P. carried out their duties as well as the public at large. I should like to express my very deep gratitude for their hearty co-operation," he said.

Officials Pleased

Air observers have reported that it was an excellent blackout and the only person who would not have been pleased with the result would be a possible air-raider, the Air Raid Precautions Officer, Wing Commander A. H. S. Steele-Perkins told a "Telegraph" representative to-day.

"One thing must be remedied. The public must keep off the streets. If we are ever subjected to an air attack, people would soon learn to keep off the streets by seeing the number of casualties. Everyone must take cover and shelter," he said.

"By standing about in the streets, people had greatly impaired the efficiency of the A.R.P. services. Motor drivers were forced to proceed with difficulty and at slow speed in order to avoid running people down."

SURPRISE TAXES FORECAST

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—When Sir John Simon opens his first war budget on September 27, he will face a House fully determined to accept the Chancellor's proposals as inevitable, and to be passed as rapidly as parliamentary procedure permits.

The period to be covered is up to March 31 next, in respect of which a special war supplementary credit— which must be financed by the next budget—of £500,000,000 had already been granted.

Disregarding war expenditure, outgoings already provided for in the April, 1939 budget were approximately £1,400,000,000, of which £500,000,000 were to be borrowed and £900,000,000 raised from revenue.

Of the total of £1,400,000,000, half was to be spent on rearmament. Obviously a vastly greater sum than £700,000,000 will be required for this purpose as a result of the war.

Consequently Sir John Simon may be expected to produce some surprises in the field of taxation when he speaks on Wednesday next.

"Reuter" Issues Statement

SHANGHAI, Sept. 23 (Reuter).—Commenting on an article referring to the Sino-Japanese peace rumours, issued by a section of Hongkong's press (the newspaper in question was one of our morning contemporaries) and the remarks contained therein concerning the reporting of these rumours by "Reuters," the agency's Shanghai office has issued the following statement:

"The only comment Reuters have to make in this connection is to point out that rumours were prevalent in Shanghai that did affect the Sino-Japanese exchange market, and that therefore both the cause and effect were items of news worthy of being reported."

Big Freight Increase Questioned

When you are asked for a mere 20 or 30 cents more for a tin of beans than the peace time charge perhaps the profiteering comprador is not altogether to blame.

Whether a little of the blame may not be shared home to the shipping companies is a question which will be debated by the Urban Council on Tuesday.

When the Council meets on that day Mr. C. Champkin will ask: "Has it been brought to the notice of the Chairman that the Trans-Pacific Freight Bureau of Hongkong has increased freight charges on trans-Pacific cargo by 50 per cent? If so will he make enquiries as to what justification exists for this imposition in view of the fact that it is principally freight rates that determine the price of imported food-stuff."

CANADIAN ASSISTANCE

Intensive Training Of R.A.F. Personnel

OTTAWA, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—The Canadian Government is planning to assist Britain by the intensive training of R.A.F. personnel.

A message received by the Canadian High Commissioner in London from the Canadian National Defence Minister, states that the British Government had indicated that Canada would be of most assistance at once by facilitating the purchase of essential supplies in Canada.

This involves the immediate clearing up of Canadian industry to meet the heavy demands, and of finding some way whereby Canadian dollars will be available for the British Government to purchase the needed supplies.

The Canadian navy is co-operating with the British navy in the protection of the Canadian east coast ports.

The Canadian anti-submarine defences are to be improved, and more mine-sweepers are to be built.

Canadians Enlist

OTTAWA, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—Enlistment for the Canadian expeditionary force which is to be sent overseas if required, is coming in a steady flow.

One man trekked 70 miles to the nearest recruiting depot to enlist.

New Defence Minister

OTTAWA, Sept. 22 (Reuter).—Mr. Norman McLeod Rogers has been appointed Canadian Defence Minister. He was Labour Minister in 1935.

Canada's chief press censor is Mr. Thomson, who was responsible for the arrangements during the Royal tour.
